Action Taken Today in Cases Against Druggists.

The case of W. D. Lyndham, the third druggist in the list of those who are charged by Prosecutor Pugh with violating the law by selling Hoffman's anodyne not up to the standard, was called in the Police Court before Judge Kimball this after-

After the jury was sworn Mr. Pugh ansounced that after a conference with Mr. Lipscomb of counsel for the defense an agreement had been reached that the evidence in the Roach Abell case, upon which the defendant was acquitted, should be considered as being offered in the pending case; also that the court's instructioons should be regarded as the same, and, further, that a pro forma verdict of not guilty should be rendered by the jury, in order that Mr. Pugh may take the case to the 'ourt of Appeals.
The court agreed, and the course above outlined was followed. It was stated that there would be no further trials of drug-gists for the alleged illegal sale of seidlitz powders and Hoffman's anodyne until the higher court shall have decided the Lyndham case.

The hearing of the case of Mackall Brothers, who are charged with selling a malt preparation in violation of law, was con-tinued for one week.

LOOKING AROUND FOR THE "HOODOO"

New York Republicans Pleased at Action of Bryan Democrats.

OUR COMMERCE WITH SPAIN

Special Correspondence of The Evening Star. NEW YORK, October 16, 1899.

The recent spell of weather unfavorable to yachting may be explained scientifically by the Washington weather bureau, and this explanation may pass current on the effete west side, but the water front will have none of it. Along the east side and the battery wall, where men wear four-ply boots and walk with that roll and hump proper to a sailor man who has struck his topmasts to clear the Brooklyn bridge, other reasons are heard. According to their light and upon their firm conviction, they declare that there is a "hoodoo" on the challenger or defender, and even the lovely towboat men join their seagoing brethren in this belief. There are but few of these who will pin their prediction to either boat, nor will they give the reasons upon which they base their belief; but this does not affect the vehemence of their general "hoodoo" proclamation.

They have been seeking energetically for the well-known "thirteen" and "Friday hoodoos;" but without much effect, with one possible exception. One superstitiously energetic sailor has discovered that there are just thirteen letters in C. Oliver Iselin's name as he spells it; but this evidence of fill-luck is not the only thing upon which they rest their case. The boats themselves can show a clean east side bill of health in other particulars, as the thirteenths of the months and the Fridays of the week were all-properly avoided in the laying down, the building and the launching of the two recess. the two racers. Prejudice Against Women at Sea.

These are some of the men who ungallantly attribute the alleged "hoodoo" to no less person than Mrs. Iselin. They declared that until she left the Columbia, a fair and favorable wind would be unknown. The prejudice of sailormen to a woman at sea is as old as the hills. Wherever square riggers can be seen against the sky, men can be found who will declare to the truth of the superstition. Sea writers have almost made the presence of a woman aboard equal to a shipwreck. According to their equal to a snipwreck. According to their yarns, as soon as the fair young girl appears above the companion-way the trouble begins and continues until the ship rolls her masts out in the doldrums, the ship rolls for a founding. So parhous the takes fire or founders. So perhaps the weter-front men are not to be blamed much after all. They fail to remember, however, that the same fair sailorwoman was on board the Vigilant and the Defender and cheered the crews on to victory with her

They are all strangely in earnest in this n atter. Fully convinced in their own minds that some spell was ho ding the winds in they sit about breaking the oldworld charm in a new-world manner. Many have volunteered their services to both boats without price. As a courtesy to the titled visitor no doubt the majority of their overtures have been made to Sir Thomas Lipton. During the last few days he has received a multitude of tokens, chiefly of a religious nature, the contributors of which in every case having signified that they felt sure that the wearing of the same would bring good luck, which, of course, meant chance to really sail the boats. Besides these, the receipt of which has touched Sir with but small success.

Republican Leaders Gratified. Republican leaders are gratified over the result of the recent meeting of the demo cratic state committee in the Hoffman House, when a resolution was adopted with only two dissenting votes recognizing Wm. Jennings Bryan as the "natural and approved leader" of the democracy, and pledging to him the "loyalty and love" of the democracy of this state. It did not take many hours for the news of this action to travel up the state. Expressions of comment and criticism of that action cam-back even quicker. And when some o these dispatches were perused by republi-can leaders in the Fifth Avenue Hotel, one of them wanted to wager any amount that the democrats had sacrificed any chance they might have had of electing a demo-cratic assembly this fall, and that there would be a good republican working mafority in the next legislature. Some of the upstate democrats, too, who, in the excitement attending the meeting of their state committee, were induced to register themselves for Bryan, and his political trusts, have also "heard from home." Friendly Feeling of Spaniards. At the office of the Compania Trans atlantica Espanola it is said that "there is now just as much activity in Spanish-American travel and shipping as before the war. In Cuba there is a very strong party which is working very hard in favor of annexation to the United States. And among property owners there is an almost unanimous feeling of friendlinesse toward the United States. A connection with this country would begefit them commercially insure permanence to the value of their holdings. Then there is, undoubtedly a strong feeling of friendship on account of the people themselves. If a vote could be taken in the island today, in the old Spanish way of only allowing taxpayers to vote, there would be, I am sure, perfect agreement with the aims of the United States. The people of the province of Ma-tanzas are a sober, hard-working and con-servative class, and there is the greatest friendliness for Americans there. Out of a total of 900,000 tons of sugar shipped out of Cuba during the last year more than 200,000 tons passed through the port of Matanzas from this one province. I did not know if he has done so, but Gen. Wilson, the governor of Matanzas, will surely embody that fact in his report. Steamship companies running between American and Spanish ports are nearly all making ar rangements to increase and better the service because the business demands it."

Brightwood Avenue Citizens Present a Strong Case.

In Urging the Opening of Thirteenth or Fourteenth Streets They Present Some Granbio Facts

Mr. Louis P. Shoemaker, president of the Brightwood Avenue Citizens' Association teday submitted to the District Commis sioners, by direction of the association, the following letter:

"We urge upon the Commissioners and through them upon Congress the opening of 13th or 14th street. Both are necessary not only to develop this section and allow Washington city to come in this direction. but these streets, or at least one of them, should be opened to prevent imminent danger, great loss to our property rights and perhaps destruction of life by the continued existence of wholly inadequate means of access and egress to and from Washington city.
"We ask you to help us to remove the Chinese wall, so to speak, which exists at Spring street, and enable us to extend 13th and 14th streets beyond and into this immediate and adjoining territory, so that the remarkable development and improve which we find extending to Spring street and known as Columbia Heights, M Pleasant and Holmead Manor, can reach this immediate and adjoining section of the District of Columbia. How the Section is Circumscribed. "Shall the city of Washington be circum-

"Under existing conditions we unhesitatingly state that this result is being accomplished. We contend that the remarkable development of Columbia Heights cannot reach our admirable section of the District, because there does not exist a street in this direction upon which it can come. There is not a street extended or open to the District line upon which buildings and improvements can be made, from the old boundary line of the city between North Capitol street and Rock Creek Park, a distance of about two miles, except Bright wood avenue.

"Upon this important thoroughfare there is an electric car line; it is admitted to be insufficient in width. It is perhaps destined to be a business street, and cannot possibly afford the derired facilities for our section. The only other highway is the Piney Branch road, a circuitous and abandoned country roadway. It does not conform to the proposed plan for the extension of streets, and consequently improvements cannot be made upon it, nor can the development to which I have referred, known as Columbia Heights and Mt. Pleasant, possibly reach this section. We are in sight of this territory; every day we look upon these admirable improvements from the altitude of Brightwood. They could be cannot be made upon it, nor can the de these admirable improvements from the al-titude of Brightwood. They could be reached on an electric car in ten minutes, and with a carriage in fifteen or even less, if 13th or 14th streets were opened.

Striking Comparisons.

"Land is readily selling there for $2 and $3 per square foot. There great apartment houses, numerous costly residences and concreted streets can be found. Here, because we are suffering for access thereto. land has to be sold, if at all, by the acre or at the low rate of 20 or 25 cents per square foot, and our improvements, if we can call them such, are of the most inferior character, and will, in my judgment, operate in the future, if they are not a detri-ment and injury to this desirable section of the District. You will agree with me that such a state of affairs is a material disgrac: when we come to consider that this is the capital city of the nation. "The continuation thereof is not only a great injury and injustice to us and our property interests, but it is an absolute in-jury and injustice to the capital city, and all Washington should assist us in our ef-fort to remove it. We have had many years and thousands of dollars expended in Thomas deep y, contributions have come in of rabbits' feet and other more naturalistic instruments for breaking spells of bad luck as well as making sure stretches of good. The sailors on both the cup boats have been given chances to buy things of this sort. The venders within the last calm gays have touched at both yacht tenders and the public by reason of maps which have been filed. Where is the street which has been opened in this direction which has been opened in this direction. is the land which has been condemned for this public purpose and paid for from a public treasury, the only legitimate way known to us by which private property should be taken for the public use under our Constitution?"

POLICE CASES SEXT UP.

Commissioners Approve Recommend-ations Made by Maj. Sylvester. Major Sylvester, the chief of police, today submitted to the District Commissioners the findings in a number of trials of members of the force. In the case of Officer J. F. Bruce, found guilty of neglect of duty, Major Sylvester's ecommendation that the man be removed has been approved by the Commissioners. In his recommendation Major Sylvester stated that he has done all in his power to improve and save the officer, but is convinced that he is not adapted to police work. Officer Bruce was found guilty of sleeping while on duty and of failing to report "off auty."

Policeman Eugene Davis was found guilty of riding on a street car while on duty, and the Commissioners have approved Maj. and the Commissioners have approved Maj. Sylvester's recommendation that he be fined $5 and warned against violating the regulations and orders in the future. In order to secure continuous patrol service, explains Major Sylvester, and that protection to life and property which the public expect and is entitled to, it is essential that members of the police force going to and members of the police force going to and coming from their beats shall avoid riding on streets cars.

Officer G. V. Johnson was also fined $5 by the Commissioners upon Major Sylvester's recommendation, he having been found guilty of leaving his beat and engaging in conversation on other than police business. Any neglect on the officer's part in the future, the Commissioners state, will result in his removal. The Commissioners also imposed a fine of $5 on Officer T. F. Murphy, found guilty of failing to report through the patrol box on his beat to his station, and have warned him that any future neglect of duty on his part will result in his removal from the

In the case of Officer Wm. H. Heard charged with neglecting to report "off duty," and with conducting himself in an insolent and threatening manner toward Sergeant E. C. Goss, a verdict of not guilty was rendered by the trial officer. In approving the finding, Major Sylvester states that harshness and disrespect among offithat harshness and disrespect among offl cers, or on the part of officers toward others, will not be countenanced. The Commissioners have approved the major's recommendation that Sergeant Goss be advised against advancing opinions, and that Officer Heard be transferred, with the warning that any failure or neglect or warning that any failure or neglect or dis-respect on his part in the future will result in his removal from the force.

The Commissioners approved Major Syl-vester's recommendation that the charge of absence without leave preferred against Officer R. C. Upperman be dismissed, the officer having been accusted by the trial officer. Suit for Recovery of Money. Frank P. Murphy, through Attorneys

Padgett and Forrest, this afternoon filed suit-at-law against Samuel Bieber to recover $1,200. It is explained that the complainant was the owner of a one-third undivided interest in lot 10, square 683, and placed the same in the hands of the defendant to dispose of. Later, it is stated, an owner of one of the other thirds accept-ed an offer of $5,100 for the lot as a whole, and so informed the defendant. The latter and so informed the defendant. The latter, according to the declaration, after receiving such information, offered to purchase the interest of the complainant in the property for $500, and the plaintiff accepted. The suit is for the difference between $500

INJUSTICE IS ALLEGED

Upon the return of Attorney General Griggs, who is with the President, it is probable that he will be asked to review an opinion rendered to the President on September 9 as to the power of the local authorities of the Hawaiian Islands to dispose of portions of the public domain. The President will at the same time be asked to revoke a proclamation issued directing that all proceedings for the disposition of public lands be discontinued; that the sales which have been made are null and void, and that the money paid to the local authorities on account shall be refunded. This proclamation was issued on the opinion of the Attorney General, and as a result of the proclamation there is a great deal of dissatisfaction among portions of the Hawaiian population.

He will claim that a great deal of injustice has been done to hundreds of peo ple in the islands and that the present Ha-waiian government has been placed in an embarrassing position.

> The Attorney General's Opinion. The opinion of Attorney General Griggs was that under the resolution annexing the islands to the United States, together with the principles of public law governing the subject of territory ceded by one government to another, the public lands of the Hawaiian Islands became the property of the United States and could be disposed of thereafter only by special act of Congress. The Attorney General was so positive in his views that he said that it was "easy" to arrive at a conclusion.

> The claim of the Hawaiian people and those newspapers which consider the President's action unjust is that after the act of annexation was passed the Hawaiian government requested the government here to answer a number of questions as to what should be done in the islands pending egislation by Congress. One of the ques-tions propounded was specifically in relaion to land patents and deeds by Pres-Instructions to Hawaii.

In the answer which was received by the Hawaiian government the specific question was not definitely answered, but the Hawaiian authorities were instructed "that the municipal legislation of Hawaii generally should remain in force." It is claimed that, acting on these instructions, the Hawaiian government proceeded to deal with lands as hitherto until the State Department addressed a letter, in August, to the Hawaiian government calling attention to the protests of "squatters" against the sale of government lands. It is further claimed that an answer was prepared to this communication, and that left Honolulu September 1, it left Honolulu September 1, reaching Washington after the proclamation of the President. It is held that the government here should have waited for information from Hawaii before taking such radical action.

Many Persons Affected.

It is said in Hawaii that a large number of persons and two or three large sugar concerns will be affected by the decision of this government. It will be impossible to fully repay the purchasers of the land when many of the properties have been greatly improved. Two railroads are in volved and will suffer damage. It is said that the United States courts will be apealed to, and that the matter will finally ome to the Supreme Court of this country, unless the government revokes its action.

There is of course another side to the case, and this is the side that has been presented fully at the Department of Justice. It is from the "squatters" on gov-ernment lands in Hawali. They are poor people, and claim that they have been il-legally ejected and their lands sold to peo-ple who are friends of the existing government. Many officials of the administration here have been led to believe that there is a close compact among Hawaiian officials, and that they have been extending favors to friends whenever possible.

UNMILITARY CONDUCT.

Some Sharp Criticism of Volunteer

Troops.

In a report to the War Department Brigadier General Thomas M. Anderson, commanding the Department of the Lakes, gives a brief account of the operations in that department for the period beginning

May 8 last, which was the date of his taking command. He says as a result of a re-cent inspection of the posts of the department that Columbus barracks, Ohio, is well adapted for a recruiting depot, but not in his view for a large permanent garrison.

It cannot well shelter more than 500 soldiers, and a proportionate number of offi-cers. The grounds are of limited area and the sewerage and drainage, he says, are defective. In his opinion, a new line of dgains should be put in for the buildings located in the extension of the post. For a reasonable expenditure, the post, he says, can be made healthful and agreeable.

Fort Sheridan, near Chicago, is reported to be in good condition, but in the opinion of General Anderson, is too expensive for a small garrison. No provision has been made in the barracks for company messes and general messing does not meet the approval of any considerable proportion of excellent at all posts except Fort Th

where the commanding officer reported that

Salem settlement, just outside the reservation, was a nuisance, and on account of low saloons, which it contained, a menace to the moral and discipline of the men. The discipline of the volunteers at Fort Brady, Colonel Sanno says, was lax, but he admits that it is no easy matter to maintain in volunteer organizations generally the regular standard of army discipline.

"Privates were observed," he says, "going about the post and town with blouses unbuttoned and presenting a slouchy ap-pearance, and I failed to see any attempt being made to stop such unmilitary habits.

The men were careless about saluting, and it was noticed on several occasions that men, sitting down, saluted with a wave of the hand without assuming a standing position. Enlisted men, presumably mem-bers of the guard at St. Marie's Canal, visited Sault Ste. Marie, wearing their side arms and entered buildings there. The con-duct of some of these volunteers in becoming involved in a riot or drunken brawl in Sault Ste. Marie, July 21, 1898, was the sub-ject of a personal investigation by the department commander under instructions of the Secretary of War, to whom com-plaint regarding the affair was made by
